SENT REPORT TO DEPARTMENT

Official Notice Given That Minnesota's Launch Was Found.

WASHINGTON, June 14.—Official notice of the finding of the battleship Minnesota's launch, which went to the bottom of Hampton Roads with its eleven occupants on Tuesday night, was received by the Navy Department to-night in a message from the commander of the Atlantic fleet. The dispatch says the launch was grappled by the dragging party, and that the launch was expected to be raised to-night. Several bodies were found, but "on account of the confined space" their number could not be counted. The location of the discovery of the launch is thus described in the dispatch:

"Right angle flag staff of Port Wool to right tangent of the Chamberlain, 70 degrees. Left angle flag tangent, Chamberlain, 100 degrees. Right angle flag tangent, Newport News, 104 degrees 30 minutes."

GRANDFATHER IN MONITOR FIGHT

Young Holcomb Met Death Near Spot Where Captain Barney Won Lasting Fame.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
FREDERICKSBURG, Va., June 14.—It is a strange coincidence of the fate of the late Captain Joseph Nicholson Barney, of Fredericksburg, Confederate States Navy, grandfather of Mississippi Congressman P. Holcomb, who is reported among the missing in the launch from the battleship Minnesota on Monday night, played a prominent part in the famous Civil War battle in Hampton Roads between the Monitor and the Merrimack, and was promoted by the Confederate Congress "for gallant and meritorious conduct" in certain hazardous undertakings which he accomplished in that locality.

Young Holcomb's mother is a daughter of Captain Barney, and the grandson has lost his life in the very waters where his grandfather fought so gallantly nearly half a century ago.

At the beginning of the Civil War Captain Barney resigned from the United States service which he had entered in 1832, and offered his services to the Confederate States Navy. He was the famous Commodore Joshua Barney, of Revolutionary fame, who distinguished himself by his defense of Philadelphia in 1777, and his British warship Gen. Monk, and also by his gallantry at the battle of Bladensburg.

MORGAN WAS A TREATY-KILLER

Alabama Senator Had Peculiar Antipathy for Such Measures.

BY WALTER EDWARD HARRIS.
WASHINGTON, D. C., June 14.—Sketches of the late Senator Morgan, of Alabama, who died at the age of 71, have not made mention of a peculiar work of the Alabama Senator, which he performed in the Senate during his thirty years' service. Senator Morgan killed more conventions with other powers than any man of his time or any other time. He served for many years on the Senate floor, and in the pleasure in opposing the ratification of a treaty, his opposition was successful, and the treaty was never heard of again.

The failure of the Senate to ratify the treaty was the result of the terms of which this government was to take over the customs houses and collect the tariffs for the benefit of the creditors of the Dominican Republic, was due very largely to the opposition of Senator Morgan. He held up the treaty in Panama, by which we were to take over the canal zone, but lost that fight.

Fought the Cuban Treaty.

CUTSHAW TO MAKE REPLY LATER ON

Will Decline to Assume Responsibility for Work of Surveying and Platting Territory.

LIVELY SESSION IS EXPECTED

Mayor Thinks It Would Be Desirable to Let Some of Work to Contract.

The action of the Common Council in voting to award the contract for surveying and platting the recently incorporated city territory to a firm, instead of having the work done by the City Engineer's Department, was the subject of a lively session of the Council yesterday.

The criticism of the departments of the city government by several Councilmen added further interest to the action. The Council members expressed various views on the subject.

In official circles it was difficult to secure a statement for publication. The City Engineer, Cutshaw, views as to the action taken and the criticisms by the Council of that department were awaited with interest.

The Mayor is expected to talk in his own defense and to explain why the Council should have taken the action.

Mayor McCarthy, too, when asked for a statement, declined to talk for publication. It is expected that the Mayor will make a statement at a later date.

CITY BUILDINGS TO BE INSPECTED

Council Committee and Others to Receive Structure at the Exposition.

BE RICHMOND HEADQUARTERS

With Capable Man in Charge, This City Will Be Well Advertised There.

The Committee on Grounds and Buildings of the Common Council and a Committee from the Chamber of Commerce left the city yesterday evening for the Exposition to inspect and to receive from the contractor the Richmond Building.

The building will be in charge of Mr. J. H. Chatigny, who is unusually well informed as to Richmond, its business, and its advantages and attractions.

UNIQUE PLAN FOR RICHMOND FLAG

Mr. Jenkins Submits Design to Mayor—What Ex-Confederates Say About the Council.

Mr. L. H. Jenkins has submitted to Mayor McCarthy a design for the city flag as a substitute for the Norman flag and Southern cross, and this latest suggestion is at least unique. The design of Mr. Jenkins is that a shield bearing the national colors be superimposed upon the square Confederate flag, leaving the four ends of the cross extending beyond the margin of the shield.

The Mayor does not approve the idea of another flag in miniature upon a State or city flag, and adds that the idea is unheard of. He is receiving numerous letters from people all over the country, including some prominent ex-Confederates, ridiculing the timidity of the Council, as they regard it. When the Mayor received the design, which he had just read, he declared he did not deem it proper to give any out to the press.

WANTS BOULEVARD FOR EAST END

Committee on Annexed Territory Proposes One to Oakwood.

The Committee on Appointments of Expenditures in the Annexed Territory is contemplating recommending to the Council the construction of a great boulevard from Broad Street at Chimborazo Park, out Thirty-fourth Street and on to Oakwood Cemetery. The matter would have to go to the Committee on Streets before any action is taken, as yet the proposition is little more than a suggestion. The proposed boulevard would be 120 feet wide.

WILL RECEIVE GAVEL

Aldermen Preparing for Interesting Event on Tuesday Night.

The Board of Aldermen will on Tuesday receive the handsome gavel and the accompanying address, presented by the public school teachers as a mark of their appreciation of the Council's generous response to their petition for an increase in salary.

The gavel is a daily bit of the silversmith's art, being of ivory, ebony and silver, and though heavy, well handled and of long service. In pounding the marble slab on the rostrum to quiet the fathers, it has been suggested that the gavel should be made of steel for the use of Vice-President Spence, of the Common Council, whose molluscous voice and nervous manner have in the chair never failed to calm the most turbulent outbreak. He would thus be enabled by a mere wave of the hand to silence the noisy and unruly members of the Council.

PURE MILK CAMPAIGN

Shipments Not Up to Standard Are Being Inspected.

The city Health Department, and especially Food Inspector Holdsworth and Dairy Inspector Curtis and his associates, are being kept busy lately prosecuting the campaign for pure milk.

CENSUS OF RICHMOND

The census of Richmond, which is now being taken, will mean a great deal to the city. It is commonly believed that the last census taken by the United States Census Bureau, by which the city got credit for only 100,000 inhabitants, fell far short of the actual number. At any rate, the growth of the city since 1900 has been very rapid, yet, according to the Census Bureau's method of estimating population for intercensal years, Richmond is credited with an increase of only 10,000.

Every citizen of Richmond should be deeply interested in seeing that the present census is as accurate as possible. To that end it would be an excellent plan if the head of each household in the city would prepare a list showing the number of people in his house and on his lot, giving separately the number of white males and females, and colored males and females, and the number of persons who are blind, deaf, dumb, insane, or otherwise unable to give a full list.

If this suggestion is followed by all householders, it will certainly result in a better showing for the city than could otherwise be made.

What Malt Is to Beer

Malt is barley, with its life-giving artificially grown. Malt gives body, strength and quality to beer.

The better the malt, the more satisfying the beer.

The Pabst Eight-Day Malt Process follows Nature—it grows the barley slowly, thus preserving all of the nutritious food properties of the grain, and transmitting them to the beer.

Pabst Blue Ribbon

Brewed from Pabst Perfect Eight-Day malt and the choicest hops, Pabst Blue Ribbon is a beer having a delightful flavor, with the vital, life-giving malt predominant. It is a pure beer, properly aged, rich and mellow—malt and hops perfectly blended.

Green Was a Trusty.
Herbert Green, the negro hunchback, who escaped from the Chesterfield county jail early yesterday morning, was captured later in the day, was employed as a trusty by officers at the prison.

Green, it is said, had been sent for a bucket of water. The first trip was accomplished satisfactorily, but from the second the prisoner did not return.

It is a singular coincidence that Green, who is being held on a charge of murder, was recaptured in the vicinity of the spot on which the tragedy occurred.

During the early part of the week, Mrs. John Hastings, of No. 501 West Fifth Street, narrowly escaped being buried alive if she had not moved very quickly.

SUDDEN DEATH OF MRS. HODGSON

Widely Known Woman Expires Near Spot Where Husband Dropped Dead.

To Be Buried in Richmond

Widow of Vice-Chancellor of University of South and Noted for Her Philanthropy.

News was received in this city yesterday of the sudden death of Mrs. Telfair Hodgson, on Friday night, at the University of the South, Sewanee, Tenn., while surrounded by friends at her husband's home.

It is supposed to have been the cause of her death. A distressing coincidence is that her husband, the late Rev. Telfair Hodgson, vice-chancellor of the University of the South, died of the same cause on the same spot on the afternoon of September 11, 1893. His remains were brought to this city and interred in Hollywood, and Mrs. Hodgson will be buried by his side.

Before her marriage Mrs. Hodgson was Miss Fanny C. Potter, and lived on her father's plantation, near Savannah, Ga. A woman who never wearied of doing good, she was well known in Tennessee for her many charities, and was greatly beloved by all who knew her. Among other things she and her husband had founded the hospital, which is run in connection with the medical department of the university, and which has done much good since its establishment. More recently Mrs. Hodgson was noted for her philanthropy, as a memorial to her husband, "St. Luke's Chapel," also built of stone.

Mrs. Hodgson is survived by the following children, Dr. John H. P. Hodgson, Telfair Hodgson, both of New York City, and Miss Sarah Hodgson, of Sewanee.

Accompanied by the members of Mrs. Hodgson's family and the bishop of Tennessee, the body will reach this city tomorrow morning, and will be interred in the cemetery at 11 o'clock. The services will be conducted by Rev. Dr. E. V. Baldy, D. D., S. D., Episcopal bishop of Tennessee, assisted by Rev. E. Y. Downman.
